Francis Reading — in the King's Works at St. Johns.

But what of David's siblings — Mary, Frances & Elizabeth, and what of his parents? How did they keep up following the tragic end of their brother and son?

Francis Redden, as the name is spelled, almost certainly David's younger brother, is said to have been born in 1759. If we can rely on the Haldimand Papers. It is stated in a muster roll of Sir John Johnson's 2nd Battalion of the King's Royal Regiment of New York, under date of January, 1783, that Francis was 23 years of age, 5'7½" tall, born in Connecticut, and had in the Service for four years before being enrolled in the 2nd Battalion on 12 November, 1781.

It is recorded in these same documents that David and Francis had enlisted in Col. John Peter's Tryon's Loyal Rangers in July, 1777, and were evidently with their regiment at the Battles of Bennington in August of that year, and at the Battle of Saratoga in September next.

Francis appears to have gone to Canada with Capt. Jeremiah French's Company, while David remained near home. Edward and his son David had been briefly imprisoned in Albany but soon released under bond. Francis was recorded as being with his regiment at Lachine, Quebec in January, 1778, and at Isle aux Noix in the following April.

It is well known that during the years after Burgoyne's defeat, the American, or Tory, members of his Army were allowed to retreat to Canada, but were not to bear arms during the remaining years of the war. Then, in the Summer of 1781, when the rebels had broken the terms of the 1777 convention, the Tory soldiers were reformed once more into regiments. It was then that Francis became a drummer in the newly-formed 2nd Battalion of the Kings Royal Regiment of New York, which he had joined on 12 November 1781. He likely accompanied the battalion when it became garrison at Oswego. He must have been present when, in August 1783, it was ordered to Cataraqui to prepare for the coming arrival of the refugee loyalists to the Bay of Quinte in the spring & summer next year.

Somewhere along the line, he married Elizabeth, daughter of Simon Snider, also a Loyalist from Saratoga, N.Y. Frances and his bride settled in Ernestown Township. Here they reared a large family of eleven, whose names follow, showing their sex and names and the day on which they drew 200 acres of land by Order in-Council (O.C.). Sons were entitled to 200 acres when they reached 21 years of age. The same terms applied to daughters on marrying or also 21 years of age.

As with any other productive family, descendants of Frances and Elizabeth may well be found in all the States and Provinces of English speaking North America

Of the parents, there are no further records

Mary, also called Polly, was baptized on 9 May 1756, by the Rector of Trinity Church of Albany, on one of his visits to the Schaghticoke area. She married George Fisher on 1 May 1774. Their first son, Frederick F., was baptized in the Dutch Reformed Church of Schaghticoke in the following year. George was also a loyalist soldier & came to Canada

Elizabeth, apparently the fourth child, was born about 1761. She married John Young on 10 Oct 1779. John Young was also a loyalist, and is known to have come to Canada.

What could be a more amicable solution to an embarrassing incident in the history of your State and that his last remains had never been accorded the last rites to which any human being is entitled. It is recorded by the curator of the Bennington museum that the bones of this soldier are on exhibition at that institution as a common criminal

We firmly believe that the remains of this loyal soldier merit a decent burial after all these years of the denial of human rights.

We therefore request that the remains of this loyal soldier of his majesty's forces be reverently transferred to the Bay of Quinte Branch of the United Empire Loyalists Association in order that he may be at rest in the adopted land of his brother and his comrade in arms after more than 175 years of ~~indignity and~~ treatment not usually accorded to soldier fighting for in defence of his beliefs.

Chronology.

Born between 1753 and 1757 to Edward Redden and Jacoba Lewis, as is presumed. Edward and Jacoba had been married in the First Dutch Reformed Church at Poughkeepsie. By 1774 they were living in the Schaghticoke region, from which area many of the soldiers of the Queen's Loyal Rangers were drawn.

1777, 24 June, joined the above regiment.

David Redding's skeleton was articulated by Dr. Towner of Williamstown after Dr Jonas Fay had failed. Towner used it for demonstration purposes, as did his son and grandson in teaching anatomy at Williams College. In the early part of 1927 judge Clarence M Smith, a descendant of Dr. Towner, of Williamstown, stated that the skeleton had come to him by inheritance, the skeleton having been in the possession of the Towner family ever since it was presented to Dr — General — Towner by Jonas Fay. Judge Smith wished to present it to the Historical Museum in Bennington. The offer was accepted by Curator John Spargo. Judge Smith said that the children used to play with it, and a small girl delighted in taking it apart and re-assembling it.

They are at present-(1945) kept in a drawer and shown to the curious and inquisitive.

Hanged at Bennington June 11, 1778, less than a year after the State government was formed at Windsor. Ethan Allen figured prominently i the incident

The records of the two trials disappeared very soon after the hanging. There is no record of the trial and indictment. Spargo states" there was much that those responsible for the conviction and execution of Redding had good and weighty reasons for concealing; there is good reason, therefore, for believing that the disappearance of the records was not accidental, but deliberately caused, in order to destroy the evidence of lawlessness committed in the name of law and orderly judicial process.

Henceforth we shall associate a measure of nobility with the name of the man who was hanged in Bennington, under the shadows of West Mountain, now called Mount Anthony, that Thursday in June, 1778.

First mention of Redding is an order issued at the meeting of the Governor and Council, held at Bennington on June 4, 1778. The order is signed by Governor Thomas Chittenden and addressed to Benjamin Wait, sheriff of the county, as follows:

"This Council have taken into consideration this day the within petition of David Redding now a prisoner under a sentence of Death, & do hereby in consequence, Reprieve him the said David Redding until Thursday next the 11th Instant June precisely at the hour of Two °Clock in the afternoon of said day. You are therefore hereby ordered to Suspend his Execution until that Time."

Letter from Governor and Council directed on the next day, June 5, to Colonel Samuel Herrick, as to reason for reprieve, signed by Thomas Chandler, Jr., its secretary:

"Sir.— Yours of this day date, have recd. In answer thereto would inform you, that Redding did petition the General Assembly of this State for a re-hearing in as much as he was Tried by a Jury of six men only. The members of Assembly not being come so fully before the time of his Execution, so as to Determine the matter, therefore This Council have reprieved sd Redding from being executed until Thursday next 2 °Clock in the afternoon. This Council do not Doubt in the least but that sd Redding will have justice done him to the satisfaction of the public.

Orders issued as precaution, as follows:

Sir.— You are hereby ordered & directed forthwith to furnish a Guard of Ten effective men, one Sergeant, one Corporal & eight privates with armes & Ammunition Compleat to Guard the stores & prisoners in sd Bennington, to remain in service one week unless sooner discharged. On the same day, Saturday, June 6, the General Assembly, in session at the Meeting House, passed the following resolution:
"Voted that the petition presented to this House by David Redding be taken into consideration; and that a Committee of five be appointed to prepare a Bill, in consequence of said petition, &c." The committee chosen consisted of Joshua Webb, member from Rockingham, Elijah Alvord, member from Wilmington, Captain John Fassett, member from Bennington, Edward Harris, member from Halifax, and Major Gideon Olin, member from Shaftsbury. Neither petition nor report of the committee is known to exist nor has at any time in over 125 years (1945). William Slade who compiled a list of records & documents of Vermont in 1823 when he was Secretary of State, could not find the original records of the trial of Redding. In a footnote he told the story of Redding as he had heard it from eye-witnesses and others who had first-hand knowledge, as follows: (which is the earliest account of the event written by a Vermont historian):
"It seems that David Redding had been convicted of 'enimical conduct' and sentenced to be executed on the 4th day of June.

The curiosity which, not much to the honor of human nature, has ever been manifested on such occasions, was, on this, greatly heightened by the fact, that a public execution had never been witnessed in Vermont. To this curiosity, was added the strong feeling of indignation which SUCH a crime was calculated to excite, at that period. Under the influence of these feelings, a vast multitude collected to witness the execution. In the mean time, however, the learned Council had discovered an important defect in the proceedings. Redding had been tried by a jury of six only; and it was very uncomfortably discovered, that this was contrary to the common law of Great Britain, which required the verdict of twelve. Application was immediately made to the General Assembly for a reprieve, until a new trial could be had. The reprieve was granted at the moment the anxious throng were collecting to witness the execution.

With such a multitude, and on such an occasion, it was in vain to reason or talk of the rights of Englishmen. They had all pronounced the culprit guilty, and were not in a condition to understand upon what principle the verdict of the whole community could be set aside, with so little ceremony. While they were agitated with mingled emotions of disappointment and indignation, Ethan Allen, suddenly pressing through the crowd, ascended a stump, and waving his hat — exclaiming — "attention the whole" — proceeded to announce the reasons which produced the reprieve, — advised the multitude to depart peaceably to their habitations, and return on the day fixed for the execution, in the act of the Governor and Council; — adding, with an oath — "You shall see somebody hung, at all events, for if Redding is not then hung, I will be hung myself!"

Upon this assurance, the uproar ceased, and the multitude dispersed.

Redding was again tried on the 9th of June, and executed on the eleventh.

The foregoing anecdote has been often related to the editor by those who were eye-witnesses of the scene; and accords too well with the spirit of the times, and the well known character of Ethan Allen, to leave a doubt of its authenticity.

Zadock Thompson's History of Vermont, Natural, Civil and Statistical, 1842, gives the crime against Redding as "supplying the enemy on the lakes with provisions, and was charged with several other acts unfriendly to the country."

Dear Mr Burleigh.

On the advice of Mrs Angus of Kingston, I am seeking your help in tracing some of my ancestors.

According to P.A.C. records at the Archives here in Ottawa, Francis Redden received a grant of land in Ernestown Township around 1786, or perhaps a bit later. I would like to know where he settled, whom he married and where he had lived in U.S.A. also what part of Ireland he came from originally.

I realize all this information may not be recorded, but thought you might have a part of it in your records.

His name was misspelled in Army records - "Francis Reading" and in another place "Francis Redino"
if this helps you any.
Also, his sons and daughters names were in a book of land grants to families of U.E.L.'s "David, Elizabeth, John Stephen, Sarah, Catherine Rebecca, Mary."
However, I am searching for some information of Anne Haworth, wife of Thomas Haworth, who lived at Farrel's Bay - lot 29 in Ernestown township, along Lake Ontario not far from Millhaven. I don't know what year she died, but in 1851, she was 42yrs
old. Thomas - born 1804 - died 1880 75yrs buried in United Church Cemetery at Bath.
But could find no record of his first wife Anne -
(and my grandmother's mother)
I would like to know her maiden name.
Thomas came from England, but Anne was from Upper Canada.
Incidentally, my maternal Grandfather was Rev W. J. Asquith and preached at Bath in early 1900's - in Methodist Church.

My father Walter Redden, and mother,
Gertrude Sexsmith were married there.

I do hope you can help me in my "family" search.

If there is any charge, please let me know.

Yours Sincerely,

(Mrs) Marion G. Bradley

Redden Site History Dates Back to 1798

20 July 1956

The history of what was once known as the Redden farm makes interesting reading in the light of the tremendous development of La Salle Park on it.

Through the courtesy of W. F. Nickle, who has a personal knowledge of the property and searched records at the registry office, the following information was made available.

Patent was granted by the Crown in 1798 to John Everett for a 240 .acre tract of land which included the farm, and this remained in his name for 72 years.

In 1870 title to 160 acres of this land passed to the Dr. Amos S. Bristol family and in 1880 Dr. Bristol, who lived in Napanee, sold it to John Redden.

In 1905 the children of John Redden sold the property to John A. Redden.

By the will of John A. Redden, who died in 1935, the property was conveyed to Fred H. Redden, a son.

In 1936, increased traffic flow made necessary the widening of what is now known as Day's 40-foot Road, which borders the property on the east.

In 1950 the Redden farm was sold to Joseph McEwen of Kingston Township for $40,000. One acre of the property had been set aside to accommodate what used to be known as the Crystal Springs School, which is now a residence.

La Salle Park subdividers acquired the property two years ago.
